Dear Underclassmen:

It is with mixed emotions that the Class of 1958 prepares to leave Dunbar. Having enjoyed many wonderful experiences during the past five years, and, having witnessed many milestones in our school's history, we shall always have pleasant memories of our alma mater. Our accomplishments and failures are behind us, and we are wiser because of them.

The first big decision to make was, upon entering, to decide whether to study and get the most from high school, or not to take lessons and responsibilities seriously. Those whose decision was the former may now be proud of the records they have made for themselves. However, many of those who decided to only "get by" in their schoolwork are sorry and regret the time they have wasted.

This early decision played a great part in the first major choice that faced us. In deciding on a course of study and curriculum, we were actually choosing the foundation for our futures. From that time on, studies faced us and we had to work hard to attain the status of a senior.

My classmates took an active interest in extra curricular activities. Only now can the true value of this participation be realized. The well-rounded high school graduate not only is better prepared to meet life, but has a greater chance of being accepted at the college of his choice.

It is surprising how much emphasis is placed upon a stu-

Teachers Receive Scholarship Grants

By Joyce Braxton

H. D. Hamlett, general science and biology teacher at Dunbar, has been awarded a year's grant by the Academic Year Institute to study at Ohio State University during the year 1958-59. The science grant pays all tuition, college fees, and book expenses at the university for one academic year. In addition, each participant will receive $3000 a year for living expenses, $300 for each dependent, and travel allowances.

H. D. Hamlett

A native of South Boston, the recipient did his undergraduate work at Virginia Union University, graduate work at Virginia State College and additional work at New York University and Rutgers University.

Another member of the faculty, J. J. Cardwell, has also received a scholarship grant. His work will be done during the summer, however.

J. J. Cardwell

He will participate in the Research Mathematics Program which is designed to broaden the scope of subject matter through the presentation of practical uses.

Last summer Mr. Cardwell studied at the University of Iowa.

PHYSICS ESSAYS WIN PRIZES

The three essays below won first, second, and third prizes in a Physics essay contest held by the Physics Class. The subject was "What Physics Means to Me." Judges were H. D. Hamlett, W. E. Clark, and Miss E. H. Jordan.

WHAT PHYSICS MEANS TO ME (First Prize)

Physics, to me, is a key to the nature of matter and energy. Being such an extensive subject, it embraces the "how and why" of almost everything from the weather to the telephone, and even the automobile. Physics has been a path to the understanding and perception of those everyday things we need and use. Common knowledge can blossom into scientific awareness through this basic course, making life more meaningful and man's achievements less complicated.

—Vivian W. Pinn.

(Second Prize)

Physics may be regarded as an extremely difficult subject and may not be fully appreciated by all students. It probably hasn't occurred to many of us that the conveniences that we have are merely applications of principles underlying physics. After taking a course in physics I find it to be an interesting subject that requires a large amount of study and concentration on the part of every student. Physics has enabled me to appreciate the creative genius of man and to develop a desire for clear thinking.

SENIORS: WHAT WILL YOU MISS MOST AT DUNBAR?

Ruby Cunningham: "After leaving Dunbar, I shall miss the friendliness and cooperation of the Dunbar family and the pleasure of being a part of it."

Willie Mae Jones: "The most enjoyable thing I have experienced throughout my years at Dunbar is working and getting along with others. So, upon my leave, I shall miss, not some of the Dunbar family, but all of the students and faculty members that have helped me to be encouraged to the end."

Alma Langhorne: "I shall miss most of all Miss Graham's third period gym class where Peggy and I have our private conversation. However, I shall also miss taking the mail at the fourth period."

Jerald Morris: "When I leave Dunbar, I shall miss my sixth period French class and Mlle. Irvine saying 'Vous n'etes pas correct, M. Morris.'"

Edward Colmore: "When I leave Dunbar, I shall miss my auto shop classes and Mr. Brooks saying, 'All right Colmore, let's pull down this transmission.'"

William A. Glover: "I shall miss Dunbar as a whole, but most of all, I shall miss my second period American Government class and my many friends throughout the school."

Alice Colmore: "I shall miss at Dunbar all the experiences of

It is surprising how much emphasis is placed upon a student's activities by colleges.

I personally, have not only enjoyed working with the many activities, but I have had especially rewarding experiences during my association with the CHRONICLE, Theater Guild, Band and Jr. Red Cross Council.

My experiences and those of my class will be of little value if they do not encourage all of you to work hard so that when your class graduates, you will be inwardly satisfied at your development and your contribution to Dunbar.

Sincerely,
Vivian Pinn.

Seek Ye First . . .

By O. M. Washington

The Seniors of 1958 are in many ways one of Dunbar's most talented classes. Their excellence has been shown in various fields: athletics, drama, service to the school, music, leadership, conduct, and in scholarship.

But this little essay is dedicated to and written primarily for those anonymous Seniors who are just average or below. They are to be found in all classes and in all schools. They win few prizes and are usually unnoticed 'til later in life.

Mrs. Pearl Barnette, Payne School principal, once told of a painfully slow student of hers who afterwards became a prosperous and successful business man. She points to him with pride.

At the U. S. Naval Academy the graduating class always gives special honors to a midshipman whom they call the "anchor man." He is the man who finishes at the foot of his class. But he finishes. Many an "anchor man" has made an excellent record in the service of his country, and in civilian life. Incidentally, most of this world's work is done by average people.

Mr. George Butler, guest speaker at the Honor Society induction, called attention to how few were in the Society compared to those who were in the student body. That is true. But it would be interesting in 1978 to compare the records and success of Honor Society members with those who did not make the Society. The difference would probably be due to drive, ambition, and desire.

A famous speaker of our time, M. L. King, once advised his hearers to make a success in whatever field they chose. He said, "No matter what the job, do your very best. If you

French Club Entertains Parents and Faculty

By Joyce Braxton

Thirty-nine French Club members entertained their parents and the faculty at a picnic at Jefferson Park on last Friday evening. Each year Le Cercle Francais invites the parents and the faculty as a gesture of appreciation.

Capturing the attention of many picnickers was Mlle. Katie Pettigrew who told fortunes. Leading the group in the games, "What Do You Want for Christmas?" and "What Does Tillie Want?", was Mlle. Hazel Oglesby. A colorfilled activity was the blowing up of yard-long balloons.

Full-dress hotdogs and soft drinks were the main refreshments.

Arneatha Chambers is president of Le Cercle Francais, and Miss J. E. Irvine is sponsor.

man and help a teacher for clear thinking.
—Frankie Jackson.

(Third Prize)

Although Physics is the science of matter and energy and the physical changes in matter; it is the most versatile subject taught in high school. Physics is useful to a chemist, musician, pilot, mechanic, electrician, meteorologist, engineer, and many people of other professions.

To a housewife and husband, physics means the knowledge of the operation of household appliances such as door bells, light switches, toasters, etc. If these appliances and others need simple repairs, physics will enable you to do them.

These are only some of the things Physics will mean to me when I attain a knowledge of it. As of now, to me, physics is a valuable subject which will play a great part in my success in life.

—Lester Green.

STUDENT COUNCIL INSTALLS NINETEEN

By Ethel Reid

Mary Hatwood, chairman of the Election Committee of the Student Council, installed nineteen new members on May 15. Opening the program in the auditorium was the procession of new members and others participating in the ceremony.

Mr. C. W. Seay, the principal, was the guest speaker and was introduced by Mrs. Y. T. Ferguson. He said that sometimes we think that the complicated or difficult things in life are important. This is not true. He told the students to believe in themselves, in their fellowmen, and in God.

Josephine Anderson, chairman of the Committee on Projects, reviewed the year's activities. The Student Council has sponsored a Sub-freshman Orientation Program, a Keep Dunbar Clean Project, a Salk Vaccine Survey, the Hampton Dance Group Recital, a Faculty-Student basketball game, and a Christmas Gift Project for some homebound student.

Joyce Banks led the devotions. The Chorus sang "Master of Human Destinies" and "Alleluia Amen"; Miss M. F. Warren was director. Before the Recessional, Mrs. P. F. Weeden in her closing remarks commented on the work of the Council.

Dunbar all the experiences of high school life, the companionship of the teachers and students, and the encouragement that many of the teachers have given during my five year stay. These experiences, I think, will help me as I go out to face life."

Lelia Harris: "When I graduate, I shall miss my many friends and teachers; most of all I shall miss spending recess with 'Hot Dog'."

James Mullen: "At Dunbar I'll miss talking with Mr. N. O. White, the shop teacher, at fourth period."

Gerald Johnson: "The things I'll miss most will be my teachers and classmates."

Macon Patterson: "I shall miss Miss Graham saying, 'Miss Patterson, hurry up and take your shower so you can go to lunch,' and all my many friends who have made my stay at Dunbar an enjoyable one."

Barbara Carter: "I shall miss being in Miss Irvine's sixth period French class and hearing her say, 'Mlle. Barbara, what is the answer to the first question?' I shall also miss the seat that I sit in because the scenery is exciting."

Joseph Poole: "I shall miss most of all my special conversations with my classmates and the good times I have had with my friends who are underclassmen. I shall miss having to run to school every morning with my neighbors."

Clayton Taliaferro: "I shall miss the 'Senior Loan Fund' for getting money to ride the bus home."

Wilburn Tanner: "I shall miss most of my friends and especially Miss Irvine's holiday assignments."

CLASS OF '59 PRESENTS PORTRAIT OF PRINCIPAL

The unveiling ceremony of a portrait of Principal C. W. Seay, was witnessed by the school on the morning of May 16. James Jones, the president of the class of '59 during its Freshman year, unveiled the portrait. Accepting the portrait for the school was Mrs. P. F. Weeden, assistant principal.

Five members of the class escorted Mrs. F. S. Womack, Mrs. C. M. Seay, Miss Dorothy Lomax, N. O. White, and J. L. Mitchell to the platform. These teachers, representing one hundred and ninety-eight years of teaching, were on the faculty when the honoree was a teacher at Dunbar.

Lucille Withers led devotions, Ann Jordan sang "Morning" by Stanton, Eleanor Reid recited "Today," Lester Green gave the history of the gift, and an instrumental solo, Blakes's "Waves of the Ocean" was played by Vivian Caloway.

In his remarks Mr. Seay expressed his appreciation for the gift and urged the students to believe in themselves. The ceremony closed with the singing of the "Alma Mater."

Special guests attending the ceremonies were Mrs. Mattie Allen and Mrs. L. G. Majors, mother and mother-in-law of Mr. Seay; and Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Jones, parents of Lawrence Jones, who painted the portrait.

French Students Hear French Native

By Joyce Braxton

Mrs. Norbert Rathe, a native of Lyon, France, who has been living in Lynchburg for several months, spoke to the senior French students and a group of sophomores who will take French next year, recently. She gave information on several phases of French life and education in France. Mrs. Rathe stated that their educational system is more strenuous than in America and that there is not much extra-curricular activity. The examinations are not given by the teachers but are given under the supervision of the government. The French family is a very closely knit institution with the noonday meal a very important thing in their lives. The entire family attempts to be at home so that they may eat together; many business establishments and shops are closed at this time, and students

Fashion Flashes

By Lelia Edna Harris

Congratulations, Seniors! I know you are happy to be graduating, but sorry to be leaving Dunbar.

It's prom time again and the girls will look just beautiful in short silk ball gowns, daring cocktail dresses and the latest chemise style dresses. However, —girls, you would look simply stunning in a parachute chemise of red printed taffeta with its loose back caught at the knee with a bow.

Perhaps you will wear a straight sky blue chemise with white, silver dollar dots fizzing into a double firecracker flounce above the knee.

The boys will wear midnight blue tuxedos and white dinner jackets with dark pants and shoes.

Boys, you might try this on for size a red or white tuxedo

The Poets Speak

On Graduation Day— A Trilogy

By James Giles

I

*To the departing seniors, I would like to pay
My tribute to their graduation day.
As the time grows nigh, some cry, some sigh,
But couldn't be any more sad than I,
For I wish that somehow I were you
And my commencement day was due.*

*What do you see as your memories turn Back into the past? What did you learn?
Do you recall your moments of gladness,
Those of triumph and those of sadness?
I'm full of questions, but I'd like to say,
I wish you joy on your graduation day!*

II

*There's a high road and a low;
On which will you embark?
Will you ever yearn to know
The brighter life from the dark?
The low road is a bumpy road
Which seems to wind without end.
The high road is a smoother road,
But is narrow without bend.*

*A man's heart determines the path
By which he'll walk or run*

In Richmond, Virginia on the same day at 5 o'clock p. m., Miss Bennie E. Williams will marry William C. Jones of that city. The ceremony will take place in the First African Baptist Church.

CURTAIN CALL

By Ernest Deane

This year, the Theater Guild has been especially successful. The people of the community witnessed a play entitled "The Last Curtain" for dedication exercises. This play was based on the assassination of Abraham Lincoln.

The annual Christmas presentation was well patronized. The play "The Bethlehem Road" was very colorful and interesting. Members of the Guild put forth some of their best efforts in presenting this play.

Upholding a record, The Theater Guild received a distinguished rating for the play "One of Us" in the Western District and State competition. Incidentally, the Western District Drama Association held its tournament here. With the aid of the entire faculty, we were able to entertain them royally. It was truly the crowning achievement of this year's program.

Last but not least, "The Girl in the Rain," which was the spring performance, was well attended by students and drama lovers in the community. The Guild has certainly brought to the community good drama. This would not have been possible without our director, Miss Jordan, our drama committee, and the faculty. We are grateful to them.

We congratulate the seniors who will be leaving the Guild. They are as follows: Vivian

P. T. A. Changes Program; Mrs. Helen Withers Heads Program Committee

By Rosa Shepherd

A joint subcommittee of the P.T.A. presented the plans for next year's program at the regular meeting of the P.T.A. on Monday, May 26. These plans reduced the number of meetings per year from nine to five, and proposed a change in the type of program offered at each meeting.

Mrs. P. F. Weeden served as chairman of the subcommittee. Other members included Mrs. Lenora Scott, Mrs. Nannie Winston, Mrs. F. S. Womack, Miss E. E. Holmes, Mrs. Helen Withers, O. M. Washington and Principal C. W. Seay.

Meetings during the next school year will deal with problems confronting students, teachers, and parents. A special committee, headed by Mrs. Helen Withers, will plan the program for each meeting. Mrs. Withers will be aided by Mesdames Roberta Johnson, Lottie Thaxton, Frances Betts, and Corrie closed at this time, and students are allowed to go home.

She had with her an attractive display of dolls dressed in the native attire of several provinces. (These costumes are no longer worn because today the French people dress like the Americans.) "The provinces, too, are important," she stated, "because France is divided into departments for governmental purposes."

Mrs. Withers

Dickerson and H. Saunders and T. A. Jones.

Officers elected for next year are H. A. M. Johns, president; Mrs. Edna Scott, first vice-president; Mrs. Lottie Thaxton, second vice-president; Mrs. Lenora Scott, secretary; Mrs. Mary Scruggs, assistant secretary; Mrs. Nannie Winston, treasurer; and Mrs. Handy Withers, chairman of the program committee.

for size, a red or white tuxedo, I'm sure your girl, as well as all the girls, will think you are the handsomest boy at the prom.

The well-dressed senior girl will find a chemise to be quite appropriate under her robe.

For the class night exercises the senior girls will wear white nylon dotted swiss dresses, with a sash of white velvet. The only jewelry worn will be small pearl earrings and a string of pearls. Black patent leather or blue shoes will be worn.

The boys will wear blue suits, blue ties, white shirts and dark shoes.

The finest costume of all will be the one which will be worn on Sunday, June 8, and Tuesday, June 10, and which never changes its style. Here's hoping that in years to come you will wear your robe as gracefully as we shall try to wear ours.

Well, this ends Fashion Flashes by Lelia E. Harris. I hope you have received some helpful hints from my column. Good luck and goodbye.

Evelyn Hancock Is Elected President Of The French Club

And be a great, but humble man.

No matter how strong or stout
the heart,
One cannot help but shed a tear
For fond days gone by. Doubtful he'll start
His journey into life with a hidden fear
As his graduation day grows near.

Fear it not, and be strong in will,
For a new day dawns before you.
Let your heart drink in its fill
Of hope and love and courage true.

Soon a sad, but joyful tear will flow
Down someone's cheek, while we borrow
From our hearts, that warm, consoling glow.
How we wish to delay tomorrow!
Parting is such a short sweet sorrow!

The Place to Be

By Margueritta Tucker

I realize that you will be here for quite a spell,
And I hope you will do very well,
So take this chance, and you will see
That Dunbar is the place to be.
We have some fine facilities here,
as you can plainly see
So use them wisely and constantly,
And you will see as plain as we
That Dunbar is the place to be.

Track Team Cops Honors

By Melvin Brown
At the Journal and Guide track meet in Portsmouth, Jeff Davis scored first place in the mile run. Third place went to W. McDaniel. In the high jump Otis Tucker, Dunbar's only three-letter athlete, was second. Jeff Davis, Lester Green, Leonard Harris and Roy Ford, who composed the medley relay team, won third place honors.

Feeling very confident that his boys would do their best to win new honors, Coach Waters took the team to the CIAA meet at Morgan State College, Baltimore, Maryland. Fourth place ratings went to the following participants: W. McDaniel, mile run; O. Tucker, high jump; and J. Morris, shot put.

The VIA state meet on May 17 climaxed the season for the team. Single victories went to W. McDaniel, second in mile run; J. Davis, third in same category; and held to a third place tie for the high jump was O. Tucker. The medley relay team clinched second place.

JUST FOR LAUGHS

By Raye C. Wills

A New York psychiatrist met his old friend, Glenn, and asked him how things were going.

"Not so good," Glenn replied, "My brother is very sick."

"Your brother isn't sick," contradicted the psychiatrist, "He only thinks he's sick."

Two months later they met again and the doctor asked: "How's your brother now?"

"He thinks he's dead."

Sergeant Penick (to para-troop recruits): "Okay, men, we'll take a practice jump."

All went well until the last man came up to the plane door.

"Hold it," roared the Sarge, "You're not wearing your parachute."

"Sarge, it's all right," grinned

Last Time To Go With Nancy Jo!

Here we go for the last time, for this year anyway. For some, it's the very end; for others, it's just the beginning. Whichever it is, every one is wondering—

What will happen to P. M. and D. S. after graduation?

Will C. C. hold her affections for W. G. four more years?

Last chance to capture a beau at dear Dunbar High, E. G.

It won't be very long until June 20th will it, C. B.?

Massachusetts is a long way from here, G. J. What are you going to do now?

It's not as easy to play the field in college as it is in high school, "Bud."

Everyone is anxious to see who G. C. will take to the prom. So far, there seems to be quite a confusion.

It is peculiar that H. H. and F. A. have beer at Dunbar for 5 years, and we are just discovering their interest in each other.

Will R. M. try to date anymore girls before June 10?

E. H. seems to have quite a problem on her hands. Which will it be, R. K. or L. G.?

Looks like V. T. has completely taken over doesn't it, E. G.

Never-the-less, B. C. never gives up.

That's about it for this time. See you at the prom.

Badminton came to us from England. During the year 1860 the Englishmen played this game which was called poona. The game badminton came from the Duke of Beaufort's country estate which was called "Badminton House." The equipment used in this game is a racket and a shuttlecock or "birdie." The main purpose of the game is to score points by placing your shots so that your opponent cannot return the birdie to your court.

This is the last in the series of sports played in the girls' classes.

ROY CAMPANELLA GETS A NEW JOB

By Alberta Camm

Roy Campanella, who was seriously injured in an auto crash Jan. 28, began life anew as deputy boxing commissioner of New York. When asked about taking the job, Governor Harriman, who offered him the job, said Campanella's face lit up and he said he would be very happy to take the job.

Mr. Campanella is undergoing treatment at the New York University Bellevue Medical Center. Since being there he has learned to feed himself with a device strapped to his wrist and forearms.

Governor Harriman said his efforts would mean a lot to the boxing industry, and he would give the public a guarantee of honest boxing.

"That's all right," grinned Poole, the recruit, "Just a practice jump, isn't it?"

Raye's Notes

By Raye Wills

Hello Gang:

Since school is out and the eldest and wisest members of the Dunbar Family, the Seniors, are leaving, let's hear what they think of the latest sounds and what they have to say about them.

I like:

"Down On My Knees" by the Heartbeats because it has that certain something.—Hazel Oglesby.

"I Love You So" by the Chantels because it reminds me of a certain senior.—Barbara Carter.

"Kakie Yak" by the Coasters because of that beat.—Otis Tucker.

"Have Faith because without it you can't succeed.—Geraldine Mosby.

"Darling" — dedicated to Eugene Penick—Lelia Harris.

"So Strange" because life is so perplexing.—Richard Brown.

"I Love You So" dedicated to Betty Davis.—Godfrey Harris.

"Who Ever You Are" because I love you.—Martha Smith.

"Dream" because it reminds me of the past.—Alma Langhorne.

"Talk To Me" because a certain little voice sounds so sweet, namely Kate Graves.—Robert McCory.

"For Your Love" dedicated to Vivian Pinn.

Corinne Anderson, a member of the class of '54, has been listed as an outstanding typist at Cortez Peters Business School in Washington, D. C. She was cited for typing seventy words per minute from straight copy without a single error.

sweep the streets, sweep them like Beethoven composed his symphonies; if you build houses, build them like Michaelangelo painted his pictures."

There will always be a need for skilled and efficient workers in business, the trades, and in industry as well as in the professions.

Beginning this year some lucky Dunbar Senior will earn an annual $300 college scholarship because loyal and efficient colored workers in a local construction firm (F. L. Showalter) made it possible.

So, Class of 1958, begin early to plan for and find your dignified place in a world of work—whatever its nature. For to Those Who Seek and acquire education, technical skills, discipline, property, and business—other things will be added.
